

Team Building With Bite

Who we are:

List of life Event is a London based company who have been running for 14 years, we specialise in organising socials, corporate activities and weekend trips. Our creative team of event organisers have come up with a range of activities that are thought provoking, mind stimulating and even stress relieving.

The Overview

This is a team building activity like no other! Work with an animal welfare charity, passionate about providing enrichment for animals by changing their surroundings. The product can be adjusted to meet your intentions, whether that be for fun, team-building or a competition, but the end result remains the same: your team will build toys, entertainment, interesting enclosure features and maybe even a brand new enclosure for animals, depending on how much time you have to commit to the cause! It is the perfect corporate event to demonstrate what hard work and teamwork can do as the team will get to see just how much the animals appreciate their new toys!
